Sleeping More Quickly

I've always taken a long time to fall asleep, but a group of American scientists has (0) find a solution! This group of scientists says that writing a to-do list is the best way to help people fall asleep more (4) quick. Dr Michael K. Scullin, the chief researcher, said that writing such a list can make a person feel more (5) relaxing. After writing down such tasks we can (6) forgotten about them. He added, 'We live (7) through a 24/7 culture. This is why our list of things to do seems to always grow (8) but grow. this causes us to worry about unfinished tasks (9) for bedtime. Our research says people (10) which write detailed lists fall asleep faster than those who write simple or general lists'. This (11) are good news for the 40 per cent of American adults who have problems falling asleep at least a few times each month, as recorded by the U.S. National Sleep Foundation. Now I know what to do!

My best friend Aminah and I were talking to each other in the schoolyard after class when we overheard some boys laughing loudly. Samuel, the boy I had liked since Form One, was making fun of my pimples in front of his friends. That was the worst moment of my life. I felt miserable and just wanted to escape. Before anyone else could see, I ran out of the schoolyard, leaving Aminah behind.

I was so hurt and angry that I ran all the way to my favourite spot, a stream behind my house. I sank to the ground beside a tree, sniffing loudly. I heard loud chirping and looked up just in time to see a bird flying over the stream. The bird flew down and dipped itself into the water. The bird flew up a few seconds later, but this time, it was the most beautiful bird I had ever seen!

I could not believe my eyes. Did the water hold some kind of miracle? I scooped some water into my hands and drank a small mouthful. When nothing happened, I drank the rest. Then, my body felt heavy. Soon, everything become dark. When I next opened my eyes, I was on my bed. Aminah was staring at me. She told me that I had fainted at the stream. She also said that I looked a little different. I quickly grabbed a mirror and I stared at it. My skin was so smooth! All my pimples were gone. What had happened?
