

ONE WHEELBARROW EVERY DAY

There was a factory in India. Two hundred workers worked in this factory. At the gate of the factory there was a guard. He always stood there.

One evening a worker pushed a wheelbarrow out of the factory. There was straw in the wheelbarrow. The guard saw it. He stopped the worker. He took out all the straw. But he could not find anything in the wheelbarrow.

The next day the same worker did the same thing. He did this for one month. Every day the guard stopped him at the gate. But he could not find anything in the wheelbarrow.

One day the guard said to the worker, "I will not work here any more. You can talk to me freely. I will not tell anybody about it. What do you steal every day?"

"I steal one wheelbarrow every day," the worker replied.

1. Find the right word from the story to fill in each blank.

1. This story happened in a factory in _____.
2. In this factory there were two _____.
3. A guard always stood at the gate _____.
4. A worker pushed a wheelbarrow _____.
5. The guard saw only _____ straw in the wheelbarrow.

2. Answer these questions with full sentences.

1. Where was the factory?

2. How many workers worked in this factory?

3. Who stood at the gate of the factory?

4. What did the guard do to the worker every day?

5. What did the worker steal every day?

