

Match the examples (1-4) with the uses (a-d) of the Present Perfect.

1. Olly hasn't had any job offers yet.	a) With experience
2. I have had interviews with two companies.	b) With recent actions
3. Sean has taken the most difficult exams.	c) With words such as ever , never , yet
4. I've just finished my last exam.	d) With actions in the past (but we don't know when)

Olly: I've just finished my last exam and in one week I'm going to leave university!

Sean: Lucky you. I haven't finished my exams yet. I've got two more. I've already taken the most difficult ones though, so that's good.

Olly: What are you going to do after university? Have you decided yet?

Sean: Not yet. But I think I want to travel for a couple of months.

Olly: Yeah, I'm not sure, either. I'm considering a couple of jobs, but I'd really like to take the summer off and do some volunteer work.

Sean: So have you already received some job offers?

Olly: Well, I've had interviews with two companies, but I haven't had any job offers yet.

Sean: Wow. You're lucky to have had interviews. Hey, have you just texted me? There's a message from you.

Olly: Well, I texted you about an hour ago, but it seems you've only just received it for some reason.

- We form the Present Perfect Simple with verb:
 - am/is/are + verb-ing
 - have/has + Past Participle/V3

- To make the negative, we put before the main verb.
 - haven't/ hasn't
 - isn't/ aren't.

- To make the interrogative, we.... .
 - change the order of words between subject and the helping verb "have"
 - add a question mark to the affirmative form
