Pancake Day

Shrove Tuesday, called Pancake Day in Britain, happens 41 days before Easter Sunday. For the next 40 days, some people don't eat sweets, chocolates or crisps. But on Pancake Day, they can eat as many pancakes as they want.

In many villages, people have pancake races. In Olney, the married women run a race. They carry a pancake in a pan and run for 400 metres.

In France, this day is a festival called Mardi Gras. This means Fat Tuesday. People wear amazing clothes and go out in the streets to have fun. It is also called Mardi Gras in New Orleans and this festival is famous all over the world.
