A TRUE STORY

On Christmas Eve, 1971, German teenager Juliane Koepcke took a flight from Lima to meet her father in Pucallpa. But the plane never arrived. When the plane was going through a storm, a 17-year-old girl looked out the window. She saw that the wing was on fire. And that was the last thing Juliane remembered. She woke up three hours later, in the jungle. She had some broken bones but she was alive. She looked around but found only some empty seats and parts of the plane. Of the 92 people on the plane, Juliane was the only survivor.

Then, she remembered her father's advice: "Follow the river to find civilization". Juliane walked along the river. Sometimes she heard planes, but they didn't see her.

On the tenth day, she found a house, and rested for a while. The next day, a group of Peruvian hunters arrived at the house. They took her to the town of Tournavista, and a local pilot flew Juliane to her father, in Pucallpa.
