When the time is exactly on the hour we use o'clock.

It's twelve o'clock.
We can also just say: It's twelve.

We do not usually use the 24-hour clock in English.
Choose one option:

There is one way / are two ways to say the time when it's exactly on the hour.

We also use these phrases to say what time it is.

We also use these phrases to say what time it is.

It's a quarter past seven.

It's seven fifteen.

It's half past four.

It's four thirty.

It's a quarter to one.

It's twelve forty-five

- A quarter means ten / fourteen / fifteen minutes, when we talk about the time.
- A half means thirty / thirteen / three minutes, when we talk about the time.

We can also say:

It's five past seven.

It's twenty past ten.

It's twenty to three.

It's five to nine.

Choose one option:

- Past means before / after the hour.
- To means before / after the hour.

LIVEWORKSHEETS