ROALD DAHL- Author of books for children and adults

1

Yes, I did, I worked for the British Secret Intelligence Service (SIS), lost after the war, when I was injured and couldn't fly, sure, I did.

2

No, I was fine in this little hut I always have. It is absolutely quiet here. I couldn't possibly work in the house especially when there used to be a lot of children around and even without children, there are vacuum cleaners and people bustling about.

3

Yes, you do, you see. When you are old enough to do and experience enough to be a competent writer and you are ready to write a book for children because a young person can't do it. By then you've become pompous and adult, grown-up and you've lost all your joking (sic). Unless you are a kind of undeveloped and you still have an enormous amount of childishness and you giggle at funny stories and jokes and things, I don't think you can do it.

4

If a child picks up a book and likes it, it's not the end of it. It's read at least four or five and sometimes fifteen times.

5

We have a good snooker table and we play three times a week.

6

That's played with my local friends.

7

Sunday is a long session. We start at 6.30, four of us. We finish at about 11. Someone brings in some sausages in the middle.

8

When I die.
