

Read the following passage and choose the correct answer to each question :

How do you live with multiple generations under one roof? I get that question emailed to me almost daily . Most of the comments and emails are genuine and stem from curiosity about how our home is set up , how meals are handled , how personal space and privacy are handled . The biggest question is , do you fight or have disagreements ? Sometimes I forget that our living arrangement is abnormal and fascinating to some . I honestly go about my day and think nothing of it . It has been over 4 years now that we have all been living together . It's not strange anymore for me to come home to my dad walking around in his pyjamas's or listening to my grandma or grandad bicker back and forth about nothing .

Our home is set up so that my grandparents are on one end of the house, my husband , son and I are in the middle and my parents are on the opposite end of the house . We have multiple kitchens , multiple TV rooms and multiple bathrooms . We also have 2 driveways and everyone has their own designated parking spot . Problems occur if someone parks in my grandfather's spot , then he freaks .
