The latest James Bond film 'No Time To Die' had its world premiere in London, UK, last week. Producers planned the premiere 18 months ago, but the COVID-19 pandemic delayed it.

Daniel Craig first played as the British secret agent in 2006 in the film 'Casino Royale'. 'No Time To Die' is the British actor´s fifth and last James Bond film, and he said that he was very lucky to be a part of it. Craig said that James Bond was very important to cinema and to history, too.

Filmmakers are watching closely how the film will do in cinemas. Cinemas were closed for a long time, and people are only just starting to go again. Many fans wonder who will be the new James Bond. Producers said that they would start to think about it next year.
