

VERB PATTERNS

Match the verbs with their definitions and images.

imagine
end up
remember
finish plan on happen consider seem

spend (time)
bother decide expect offer
agree
miss

to intend to do something to use time doing something or being somewhere to ask someone if they would like to have something to feel sad that a person or thing is not present to finally be in a particular place or situation to appear to be/give the impression to be to choose between one possibility or another to come to the end of an activity to spend time thinking about a possibility to think or believe something will happen to form or have a mental picture or idea of something

DON'T FORGET
keep a piece of information in your memory to make the effort to do something to do or be by chance to have the same opinion

DAN'S STORY

Read Dan's story and answer the questions.

Dan Anderson was born in the U.S.A. He's now living in South Korea. We asked him, "How did you end up living in Seoul?"

Dan: Well, it's a long story! Before I came here, I spent three years working for a small company in Tokyo while I finished doing my master's in business. To be honest, I wasn't planning on leaving or anything. But one day, I happened to be in the office, and one of the salespeople was looking at job ads online.

He knew I was considering going to South Korea someday - you see, my mother's South Korean, and I've always been interested in the culture and everything - and anyway, he leaned over and said, "Dan, this seems to be the perfect job for you. Check this out."

I looked at the ad, and I remember thinking, "Should I bother to apply?" But I decided to go for it, even though I didn't expect to get it, and to make a long story short, I got the job! The company offered to transfer me to Seoul, and they agreed to pay for my Korean language lessons. I started working here two months later. And the rest is history.

I mean, I miss living in Japan, but you can't have it both ways, I guess. Actually, I can't imagine living anywhere else now!

1. Where did Dan live before he moved to Seoul?
2. Why did he want to go to South Korea?
3. How did he get his job there?
4. What did his new company offer him?

Can you sort the underlined verbs above into the correct categories in the chart? Which verbs are followed by to + verb, verb + -ing, or a particle or preposition + verb + -ing?

Verb + to + verb	Verb + verb + -ing	Verb + particle/preposition + verb + -ing happen to be		