1. Rumours have been the staffroom lately that you're leaving.
2. Children! Stop play ! Sit politely!
3. It's a problem, but I'm sure we can it in some way.
4. Yes, I think I have a copy here somewhere ... Yes, here you are
5. The neighbours have been next door all morning. I wonder what they're doing.
6. Nothing much, just at home, really. Oh goodness! Is that the time? I have a class now.
7. OK, see you later. Don't forget that we switched our classrooms around this afternoon. You're in Room 2.
8. I was tired of being by you-know-who, and, I have here and there to see if they need any full-time teachers, but I haven't made a decision yet.
9. Theo was at the party last night. It got very irritating.
10. Politicians often the truth and don't give direct answers to questions.

LIVEWORKSHEETS