

You use the zero conditional:

For general truths.

For things you will probably do in the future.

For scientific facts.

In the zero conditional, you use present simple tense in the condition and the result.

True

False

If you drink before you drive,

You will have an accident.

You would have an accident.

You can have an accident.

The first conditional is formed:

Present simple in the condition and present simple in the result.

Present simple in the result and will/won't in the condition.

Will/won't in both the condition and the result.

Present simple in the condition and will/ won't in the result.

CHOOSE THE WORDS THAT YOU CAN USE TO MAKE CONDITIONALS:

WEATHER

SINCE

UNLESS

FOR

WHEN

YET

IF

LESS

WHETHER

I USE ZERO AND FIRST CONDITIONAL TO DESCRIBE REAL SITUATIONS:

YES

NO

_____ IF I STUDY FOR THE LESSON.

I won't get good grades.

I gets good grades.

I will get good grades.

I would get good grades.

