My Experience Of Wearing Orthodontic Braces

Three years back, I had a set of teeth that was asymmetrically aligned and appeared a little tilted towards my left side. This was due to an embedded canine (0) teeth, which never showed itself! Today, I have (1) neat arranged teeth, thanks to Dr Chin, my orthodontist, who was the reason (2) before my beautiful smile! Prior to my treatment, I had to extract three teeth (3) but the extractions were rather painful. I have always hated injections, and (4) have a needle pierce through your gums was no joke! The fixing of the brackets was also painful. The (5) bad part was that I could not chew my food as how I did before and had to be extra careful with what and how I (6) chews. Anyhow, I was more than (7) exciting thinking about what those painful procedures have in store for me in about two years' time! Soon I got accustomed to the feeling of having some metal stuffs glued to my teeth along with a thin wire holding the brackets firmly from one end to the other. I visited Dr Chin every two weeks once to get my braces tightened up, the (8) more painful protocol of all, though. Two years passed just like that and the final outcome - a million dollar smile! No pain, no gain!
