Iwan and Wei Lan are at a book festival.

Iwan: There are so many famous people here. Who shall we go see first?

Wei Lan: I know the writer who wrote the bestselling _____ (1) of Marco Polo is here. Maybe we should go see him first.

Iwan: Good idea! I was impressed by the research he did on the _____. (2). Marco Polo lived in the 13th century, it must have been difficult to find records of him.

Wei Lan: Yes, I read a _____ (3) from a book critic. She praised the writer's thorough research and the way he captured the essence of living in that century.

Iwan: I agree with her. I brought my _____ (4) copy of the book. I hope he will sign it.

Wei Lan: Let's wait in line to meet him at the booth. Later, I think we should go see the writer who wrote about her encounter with _____ (5) elephants when she went jungle _____ (6). I thought her book was well-written too.

Iwan: Sure. But, I also want to meet the writer of the _____ (7) I finished reading.

Wei Lan: Which novel is this? Is it the one about the _____ (8) lost in space?

Iwan: No, it is about the _____ (9) who developed _____ (10) in vehicles.

Wei Lan: I don't think I've read that one. It sounds interesting though. I'm glad you followed me to this festival. I enjoy your company.
