Comprehensive reading on Human Rights

Human rights allow the development of a dignified life and direct the exercise of power, they are in continuous development and recognition and it is not necessary for them to be enshrined in legal norms to demand compliance. Their respect, protection and fulfillment, constitutes the highest duty of the State.

Currently it is widely accepted to classify human rights only as civil, economic, social, cultural and environmental. ... All people have the right to enjoy and enjoy in the same way the rights recognized by the Constitution, international treaties and laws.

Everyone has the right to: Education rights, right to life, right to a home, right to liberty, right to security, right to health, right to be treated with equality, right to a nationality, right to freedom of expression

a.- READ AGAIN AND COMPLETE THE SENTENCES.

1.- Human rights allow the development of a _____

2.- They are in continuous development and recognition and it is not necessary for them to be in _____ to _____

3.- Their respect, protection and fulfillment, constitutes the highest duty of the _____ 4.- Human rights are classified as: _____ , _____ , _____ , _____ and _____

MSc. Evelyn Rodríguez M.

LIVEWORKSHEETS

Everyone has the right to: Join with lines as appropriate

Education rights

right to life

right to a home

right to liberty

right to security

right to health

right to be treated with equality

right to a nationality

right to freedom of expression

MSc. Evelyn Rodríguez M.

LIVEWORKSHEETS