THE SELFISH GIANT BY OSCAR WILDE

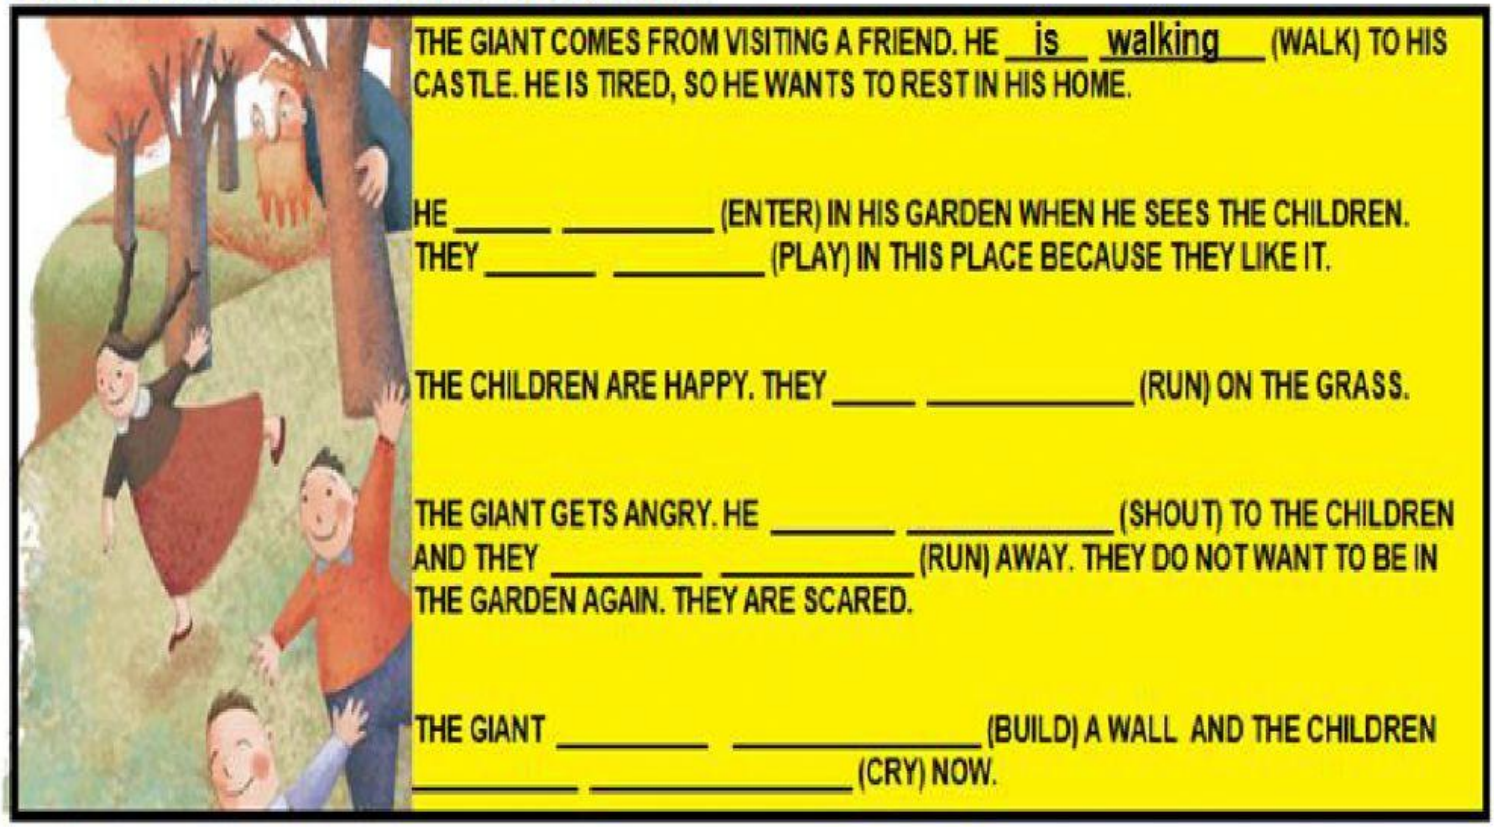

Every afternoon, as they're coming home from school, some children go and play in the Giant's garden. It's a lovely large garden with soft green grass. There are beautiful flowers like stars on the grass. And there are 12 peach trees that in spring are full of delicate pink and white flowers, and in autumn have rich fruit. The birds sit in the trees and sing sweetly and the children often stop their games to listen to them. 'How happy we are here!' they say to each other. One day the Giant comes back after visiting his friend the Cornish ogre. When he arrives he sees the children playing in his garden. 'What are you doing here?' he shouts in a very angry voice and the children run away. 'My own garden is my own garden,' says the Giant, 'and no one can play here.' And he builds a high wall all round it and puts up a noticeboard.
