

Cold OR Flu?

Know the Difference

It's flu season again. Knowing the difference between the flu and a cold saves lives. It's easy to get confused because a stuffy nose, sneezing, and sore throat are all symptoms of both diseases. Review the following conditions and symptoms to tell the difference.

With colds, patients get moderate cases of coughs at the worst. With the flu, coughing can become quite severe.

The flu also causes severe aches and fatigue. Strong headaches are a common flu symptom as well. In colds, these symptoms are usually mild. Colds rarely cause a high fever. In the flu, however, a high fever is one of the disease's main characteristics.

Remember, early diagnosis of the flu saves lives.
