

MUN Debate Structure

Speaker's List: delegates are invited to sign up on the list of speakers who will present their speeches. All conferences start here.

After quite a few speeches, delegates usually will move into one of the following options: Moderated Caucus or Unmoderated Caucus

After each caucus, debate usually returns to the formal speeches, until there are resolutions ready.

Committee may move into voting procedure to vote on the resolutions, or Committee may decide to write amendments (changes) to the resolutions

Motion to open the session – the debate is formally now open

After voting and choosing a resolution, the session is closed. The End.

Resolutions are presented: usually after each resolution is projected and read out loud, there is time for questions. Then:

Motion to set the agenda – the committee decides which topic will be discussed

The Chair calls the session to order
