Our local team

"The dragons" is an amateur football team. They are not famous in Great Britain, Brail, Germany or Italy but they are famous in their town, Redbridge, in the state of Connecticut. They are a team with passion.

The palyers are teachers, engineers, doctors and taxi drivers in the morning and afternoon. But in the evening they are football players. They train on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evening and they compete against other local teams on Saturday morning.

The players are very healthy. They sleep eight hours a night and they never smoke. They also drink a lot of water. They are dedicated to this sport. Their fans love them and say they are very important to the Redbridge community. They inspire young children and teenagers to follow their dreams and live a healthy life.

Last year, the team participated in a competition that took them across their country. They got to the finals and won! Everyone was very happy, especially their biggest fans, their families. They always support them in every match.
