Halloween is a traditional celebration held on October 31st. Today, Halloween is an excuse for Halloween theme costume parties. Many children dress up in fancy costumes and visit other homes in the neighborhood. Sometimes, children go "trick or treating" - knocking on doors and they demand sweets, snacks or a small gift. If they do not get this, they threaten to do some harm to the inhabitants of the house. This is known as playing 'trick-or-treat' and is supposed to happen in a friendly spirit. families Also decorate their house with skull, skeletons, lanterns.

Día de Muertos becomes more familiar to the rest of the world thanks to the movie Coco from Disney. In the 1st and 2nd of November, Mexico and parts of Latin America celebrate Día de los Muertos (also known as Day of the Dead) to honor their ancestors. It is believed that the Gates between Heaven and Earth open up at midnight on October 31 and the souls of children return to Earth to be reunited with their families for 24 hours. The souls of adults also come down from heaven to join in the festivities on November 2. on this holyday Mexicans remember and honor their deceased loved ones. Mexicans visit cemeteries, decorate the graves, and spend time there, in the presence of their deceased friends and family members. They also make elaborately decorated altars (called ofrendas) in their homes to welcome the spirits. The Ofrendas usually have candles, bright marigolds called cempasuchil and red cock's combs alongside food like stacks of tortillas and fruit.
