

Watch the video “About Interpol”

... and fill in the blanks using the tips below:

Globalized in interconnected world, crime is increasingly As criminals cross police need to stay one step ahead. Interpol brings the world's police forces together to international crimes. As the heard of every member country, an Interpol Bureau links national police with our global and our general in France. 24 hours a day, 365 days a year we watch the world to analyze and information on crime. Searching for..... , sharing analysis, making connections to down criminals..... Our red alert police worldwide to persons reaching every member country over our secure communications network. We police of different criminal activities and threats using the latest to reach officers on the front line. To support our member countries specialized police provide operational and crisis response and we build skills through courses helping National Police to use our databases. Updated day and night these databases provide criminal information. This network of countries working together makes Interpol.

Interpol fighting international crime making the world a place.

technology, borders, share, network, unique, notices, international, real-time, track, assistance, wanted, secretariat, training, gather, safer, data, solve, warn.
