Sally: What's the matter, Dan? Have you got a cold?
Dan: No, I haven't. I don't feel ill, but I feel very tired.
Sally: Really? Did you stay up late last night?
Dan: Yes, I did. I went to bed at ten o'clock, but I couldn't sleep.
Sally: Oh dear. Staying up late isn't good for you. What exercise did you do yesterday?
Dan: I didn't do any exercise yesterday. I caught the bus to school and my mum took me home in the car. I did my homework, then I watched TV and then I played computer games.
Sally: Oh, Dan! That's not very good. TV and computer games won't keep you healthy. You should do some exercise every day. Why don't you walk to school, or play outside when you've finished your homework?
Dan: I can't! I'm always tired when I finish my homework.
Sally: Exercise will give you more energy. Try it!
Dan: OK, I will.
Sally: Do you eat lots of healthy food?
Dan: No, I don't. I don't like healthy food. I like chips, burgers and fizzy drinks.
Sally: Dan! Those foods are very bad for you! And fizzy drinks are full of sugar. You should eat lots of fruit and vegetables. They keep you strong and fit. You're always tired because you eat the wrong things and you don't do any exercise.
Dan: Really?
Sally: Yes! You'll feel great if you start being healthy.
Dan: OK. I'll start tomorrow.
