

RELATIVE PRONOUNS

A relative pronoun is a pronoun that is used to refer to nouns mentioned previously.

PEOPLE WHO/THAT RELATIVE PRONOUN That's the man who/that saved my life.	THINGS ANIMALS WHICH/THAT RELATIVE PRONOUN He has a car which/that costs a fortune.	PLACE WHERE RELATIVE ADVERB That's the place where I met my husband.

This is a scientist <input type="text"/> invented a robot.	This is the robot <input type="text"/> cleans the floor.	Pen drive is a gadget <input type="text"/> can store lots of texts and photos.	It's a USB port <input type="text"/> you put US B gadgets.	These are web browsers <input type="text"/> we can find information.

I like the town <input type="text"/> I was born.	This is the teacher <input type="text"/> teaches me Physics.	These are the books <input type="text"/> I must read	I know a boy <input type="text"/> plays computer games all the time.	These are the people <input type="text"/> work for Microsoft.

People <input type="text"/> stay at home will not get infected with the coronavirus.	Wash your hands to get rid of Coronavirus <input type="text"/> is very dangerous.	I wear a mask in the places <input type="text"/> there are lots of people.	The Tower of London is a castle <input type="text"/> was a palace, a zoo, a prison and a museum.	The double-decker is the bus <input type="text"/> has seats upstairs and downstairs.

This is the mechanic <input type="text"/> repaired my car.	That is the picture <input type="text"/> I painted.	A parrot is a bird <input type="text"/> can speak.	This is the tent <input type="text"/> we will sleep.	This is the person <input type="text"/> we admire the most.

This is the car <input type="text"/> my aunt likes to drive.	Last summer I was at the sea <input type="text"/> I learned to swim.	This is the fish <input type="text"/> my parents bought me.	A nurse is a person <input type="text"/> looks after ill people.	This is the village <input type="text"/> our family lives.