

My Favorite Grocery Store

Jin, Robert's girlfriend, went to a new grocery store yesterday. It was a small, friendly store in her neighborhood. She usually goes to a bigger store in a location far away but she wanted to see something new.

Jin felt wonderful the moment she entered the store. Everywhere she saw beautiful green plants. To her right, she saw a long wall of fruit and vegetables. They were all fresh. The colors were very pretty. There were yellow lemons next to red apples and brown potatoes next to green peppers. All the bright colors made her feel very cheerful. At the back, there was a small dairy section with yogurt, eggs, cheese and milk. Next to the dairy section, there was a rack of fresh meat and fish. The butcher said hello and Jin talked to him for a while. He is also a student. Jin bought some fish.

On the opposite side of the store, there were rows of shelves. The shelves were full of bottles of oil and bags of fresh coffee. The coffee smelled amazing! In the far corner, near the front, there was a small bakery section. Jin walked over there and bought three loaves of bread. They smelled so good that she had to buy them. Next to the bakery, there were big vases of fresh flowers. Jin saw a cute couple there buying some pretty roses. Finally, she went to the checkout counter.

Overall, this was a very happy experience for Jin. She would definitely come back again.
