2 Draw lines to connect the part of the digestive system to its description.

Digestive juices break down food
into a soupy liquid.

• small intestine

Most of the water is removed from undigested food.

• large intestine

Digestive juices break down food
into substances the body can absorb. Most digestion takes place here.

• mouth

Undigested food is stored here
as waste.

• rectum

Food is cut and ground into smaller pieces. Saliva also helps to break down food.

• stomach

Food is pushed from the mouth
to the stomach.

• gullet
