My Tam (Mỹ Tâm) was born in Da Nang, in 1981. She enjoyed singing, but did not regard it as a future career. She won the first prize in her secondary school's singing competition, and the Gold Award at Beautiful Voice Spring, the city's solo singing competition. Her first audio single, "Cây Đàn Sinh Viên" (The Guitar of Students), became an iconic song of the early 2000s among university students. It was the basis for her 2004 tour around various universities across the country. Her next audio single, "Dawn of Love", also released in May, was not as successful as "Singing with the River". However, one of its tracks, "Love If is Distant", became a karaoke hit. In April 2015, My Tam was the last to confirm to be a judge on the third season of The Voice of Vietnam. She mentored Duc Phuc to win the competition, although the public thought that her team won because of her giant fanbase throughout the country.
