UNIT 5: LISTENING

DICTATION

Listen to the recording and fill out the missing words.

Hi there, everybody, and welcome to Animal World. Before you start your vis	it,
I'd just like to tell you a few special events happening here today. They're all fre	e,
and I'd really encourage you to go to as many of them as you can, as I think you	ı'll learn a lot.
The event is called The World of Ants, and it's happening this morning	ng quite soon in the House, which is just a short walk from here. The we	:11- known entomologist Dr. David Crocker, who many of you will have seen	on television, is giving a all about ants – the different types of ants, ho	w
they themselves, what they eat, their and so on. It's actua	lly a fascinating So, the World of Ants, a lecture by Dr. Crocker, in the	he Insect House, and it starts at 11 o'clock and lasts for 60 minutes.
At midday, that's 12 o'clock, there's a which is just as fascinating, as	nd
it's called The Great . This is all about birds and how they migrate acro	SS and using Sun, the stars and the Earth's magnetic field. A	s I said, it's a film – an absolutely spectacular film – which all the family will enjo	οy,
- and it's on in Theater C, which you can see here ju	ıst
behind me – so bear that in mind for 12 o'clock.
The next event is a taking place in Room and given by Moni	ca
Chaddha. I's called Encouraging Garden . Monica will be showing yo	ou ways of encouraging animals, birds and other wildlife to visit and live in yo	ur garden, how to place boxes for nests, what food to put out for them and all sorts of practical . That's at 2.30, so just after lunch.

The free event for today is Birds of Prey. Tasha, their keeper, will be giving a of some of our most magnificent birds and how they fly, and I thoroughly recommend this event. The display includes eagles, vultures and owls and will be staring at 3.45 on the outside. It's an unforgettable , so I remember, on the front lawn at 3.45 to see the birds flying.

