

“I was along the road
with two – the sun
was setting – the sky turned red – I paused, exhausted, and leaned on the fence – there was blood and of fire the blue-black fjord and the – my friends walked on, and I stood there with anxiety – and I sensed an infinite passing through nature.”