三、閱讀測驗 (24%)

Goosebumps is a popular series of scary stories for kids written by R.L. Stine. One story, called The Barking Ghost, follows Cooper Holmes, a 12-year-old boy whose family just began renting a house in the woods. On the first night in their new house, Cooper hears dogs barking outside. He thinks this is strange, because there are no neighbors nearby. The next morning, he goes out to investigate, and he meets a strange girl named Fergie, who tells him the woods are haunted. Suddenly, she gets a look of horror on her face and lets out a scream. Cooper turns around and sees two dogs, which Fergie says are ghosts. They follow the dogs to a shack in the woods, and the dogs disappear through the wall. Fergie and Cooper go inside, and the dogs begin speaking. They say they're not dogs, but human ghosts trapped in dog bodies. All of a sudden, Fergie and Cooper's minds are inside the dogs' bodies. The dogs, now inside the kids' bodies, are gone. Trapped in dog bodies, Fergie and Cooper must track down the dogs and find a way to get their bodies back.
