Cappadocia

Cappadocia is a region of Turkey in Central Asia. It's a very old place. People have lived there for thousands of years. In the past, people lived in homes in the rocks that were similar to caves. Nowadays, local people have converted their ancient homes into hotels for tourists. Cappadocia is very remote. It is several hours away from the nearest town, but it is still very popular with tourists. People go there to do cycling or hiking. This is because Cappadocia has an extraordinary landscape. It looks like the moon with white rocks and dry sand. There are also tall towers of stone called fairy chimneys. The best way to see these things is by going hot-air ballooning and flying over this extraordinary place.
