Pronouns

he his it these those them

Connectors of Comparison

As well as similar to both like along with in addition to

Connectors of Contrast

unlike however although while

Connectors of Explanation

as a result because

When comparing similar objects or things, conjunctions can be used to like clauses and ideas together. Conjunctions can also be used when contrasting the differences between objects and things.
Pronouns are used to link ideas without making the links repetitive.

James has red hair. James has a fair complexion. James is tall. James is athletic. James is a good basketball player. James has a friend Alex. Alex is athletic. Alex plays soccer.

Along with having red hair and a fair complexion, James is tall. Like his friend Alex, James is athletic and likes to play sport. However, James prefers to play basketball while his friend prefers playing soccer.

Paper Planes, the novel, has three main characters. The movie has the same main characters. In the novel the main characters are Dylan, Jason (his father) and Patrick, his rival. These are the same characters in the movie. In the movie and the novel the characters have the same physical traits and mostly the same personalities. There are some differences. Jason's personality in the movie is different to that in the novel. Jason is sad about the death of his wife (Dylan's mother). Jason's depression means he is rarely there for his son. This is the same in the movie. In the movie Jason is darker and angrier. He is moody and looks mentally unwell. Some people might find this confonting. They would most likely prefer the novel.

Improve the text so that it flowsbetter. On the black lines use connectors from the list. On the red lines use pronouns

Paper Planes has many interesting characters. _____ the novel, the movie has three main characters. _____ are Dylan, Jason (his father) and his rival, Patrick. _____ the characters in _____ texts have the same physical features, some of _____ have slightly different personalities. Jason is one character who has a slightly different personality in the film. _____ the novel, in the movie ___ is sad about the death of ___ wife (Dylan's mother) and is never there for ___ son. _____, in the movie Jason's grief is overpowering. _____ being darker, ___ is angrier, moody and looks mentally unwell. _____, some people would find Jason's character confronting and most likely would prefer the novel.

Paper Planes, the novel and movie, has the same main characters. _____ are Dylan, ____ father (Jason) and Patrick, ____ rival. _____ these characters have the same physical features and similar personalities, there are some differences. Jason is one such character. In _____ the novel and the film, ___ is a middle-aged man who sad about the death of ___ wife, Dylan's mother. _____ the novel, ___ has a darker personality in the film. _____ being angrier, in the movie Jason has violent mood swings and looks mentally unwell. _____ ___ is such a troubled character in the film adaptation, most people would prefer the novel.

LIVEWORKSHEETS