

Harry Potter and Modals

(by Teacher Leticia Quintero)

Click the link and watch the video about modals; in here you can find the use of "ought to" among other modals, then choose the option that answer the question.

Part 1

Modal verbs \(ought to\) with Harry Potter - YouTube

- 1) When Professor Quirrel comes into the salon saying "thought you Ought to know" what he means: ____
 - a) It's prohibited you to know the fact.
 - b) It's a necessity for you to know.
 - c) It's and advice for you.
- 2) In the next extract professor Quirrel says "Perhaps you ought to go" it means ____
 - a) It's an order you to go out of the place.
 - b) It's not necessary you to get out the place.
 - c) You got the opportunity to go out now or never.
- 3) When Rubeus Hagrid said, "I should not have said that", the modal is in: ____
 - a) present.
 - b) past.
 - c) none of the options.
- 4) Mention the different modals you watch in this video, there are extra lines in case you need them, (write them in the order they appear),
 - a) _____
 - b) _____
 - c) _____
 - d) _____
 - e) _____

Part II

Watch this other video and choose the correct answer to the questions:

Modal verbs \(must\) with Harry Potter - YouTube

1) In this second part when Harry is saying that "All students MUST be equipped with..." it implies that:

- a) The students probably carry their equipment.
- b) The students can buy their equipment at school.
- c) Is a requirement for students to get all equipment before going to school.

2) When Harry mentions to Hagrid "that must be a mistake" when his ticket says platform 9 $\frac{3}{4}$, he means to say:

- a) that is a possibility.
- b) Is an advice because something is wrong.
- c) It's a logical assumption that something is wrong.

3) Professor McGonagall welcomes the students to Howards school but she says that before "...you must be sorted in your houses...", it means:

- a) they are suggested to choose their houses.
- b) they have the ability to go to the house they prefer.
- c) they have to be chosen by the mysterious hat, to an specific house.