One day they were asked to play in a concert.

Josh plays in a band with his friends from college.

When they arrived at the hall, they began to unload their instruments and equipment.

Finally, the whole band was pleased with their performance.

Then, they all spent the whole week practicing.

After a while, the concert started and Josh forgot that he felt nervous.

On the day of concert, one of Josh's friends picked him up in his car.

After that, they set everything up on the stage with the rest of the band.

First, they decided which songs they were going to play.

Josh was feeling nervous because there were a lot of people at the hall.

LIVEWORKSHEETS