Animals in England

In the past, there were about 4,000 birds in London's Trafalgar Square. The government said that there were [1] too many birds. [2] _____ you looked, you saw one! The birds damaged buildings and the City of London spent [3] _____ money cleaning them. The government made it illegal for [4] _____ to feed the birds [5] _____ in the square. Now there are about 200 birds in the square; enough for the photographers, but [6] _____ to cause problems.

[7] _____ people driving in the north of England see [8] _____ that surprises them: wallabies! [9] _____ brought the animals from Australia many years ago but they escaped in the 1930s. They didn't leave to find [10] _____ warmer, they stayed in the area. They nearly all died in a very cold winter forty years ago. Luckily, there are still some there, but [11] _____ knows exactly how many.
