Online Shopping and The Pandemic

While the pandemic has interrupted our way of life in many ways, online shopping hasn't lost a beat. In fact, it has continued to increase. From groceries to clothing, we are buying online like never before.

Online shopping has boomed amid the COVID-19 outbreak as customers stay indoors and limit travel, turning to online shopping instead. Functional agencies have taken measures to protect customers when shopping online.

This trend has led to a dramatic increase in online orders at e-commercial platforms such as Shopee, Tiki, and Lazada. The most purchased items have been masks, wet towels, and air purifiers.

Lazada has also seen a significant increase in shopping demand for healthcare products, such as disinfectant sprays (up 160%), diapers and paper (60%), and canned food (50%).

Retailers including VinMart, Saigon Coop, Big C, Lotte, and AEON have also quickly adapted their business plan to meet customers' demand by placing their products online. Saigon Coop has strengthened its telephone order and home delivery services. Its orders by phone have increased 10 times the normal number in some places.
