Homework 12/07/21

Reading Homework:

Directions: Read the following passage and answer the questions that follow!

Apple the Cat Calls a Meeting to Order

by ReadWorks

1 It's a sunny morning in the one-room apartment, and the girl is sleeping peacefully in her bed.

2 Under the table across the room, someone is not asleep but awake and alert. Apple the Cat has an important mission, but she's going to need some help. She's already tried everything she could do on her own, but she's beginning to realize this mission is not so simple. She will have to call in reinforcements.

3 She tried meows and playful taps of the paw, but nothing could wake the sleeping girl.

4 Apple calls a meeting to order. A few of her trusty friends are in attendance. She has summoned Fur Toy, Feather Stick, Bear Bear, and Shoe.

5 "We have an important subject to debate," says Apple.

6 Bear Bear is grumpy because he doesn't know what could possibly be important enough to call a meeting to order so early in the morning.

7 "This couldn't wait until later?" he grunts.

8 Apple ignores the cranky bear and continues addressing the crowd.

9 "I need to wake the human!" Apple declares.

10 "Have you tried meowing?" asks Feather Stick.

LIVEWORKSHEETS

11 "I already tried that," says Apple impatiently.

12 "What about playful taps?" Feather Stick persists.

13 "No," says Apple. "Today we need a new plan. Nothing seems to wake her. "

14 "I have an idea!" shouts Fur Toy. He's new in the room and always trying to prove himself with the others.

15 "What about walking by her and gently rubbing her with your whiskers?" he proposes.
Shoe rolls her eyes.

16 "Something new, Fur Toy," she says. "We all know that's the oldest trick in the book. "
"How about you just pounce on her?" says Bear Bear, growing annoyed. All he wants to do is go back to sleep.

17 The rest shoo him out of the meeting. Everyone knows pouncing is no longer allowed.

18 "Okay, I've got it," announces Feather Stick proudly, primping his few feathers. "It has to be something loud enough, right? "

19 "Go on," says Apple.

20 "What about all those new plates she just bought? What if we broke one? "

21 "She would be so mad," says Apple, dismissing the plan. "There's no way we can get away with that. We would be in trouble forever, and anyway, she would probably blame it all on me."

22 "I promise to take some responsibility," says Fur Toy, puffing up his chest.

23 "Not me," huffs Bear Bear from across the room.

24 "Nobody asked you, Bear Bear," says Shoe. She begins tying up her laces.

25 "Wait-Shoe, you think this is a good idea?" asks Apple. When Shoe ties up her laces, everyone knows she means business.

LIVEWORKSHEETS

26 "I don't know, it could work," she admits. "Plus, what does she need all those dishes for? "

27 Apple thinks about it. She doesn't want to upset the girl, but she really needs to wake her.

28 "Wait just a minute, here," says Bear Bear from a few feet away. "What is SO important you can't possibly wait for her to wake up?"

29 Apple pretends not to hear him, but the others begin to nod in agreement. Only Feather Stick seems unconcerned as he continues to preen his feathers and play in the patches of streaming sunlight from the window.

30 "Yeah, I mean, what is so important?" demands Shoe.

31 "Fine," says Apple. "I'll admit-it's about time I got a treat. The girl has been so busy lately, it's been days since my last treat! I'm going crazy here. I love those things! "

32 "So what do we get out of this?" asks Fur Toy.

33 "How does my undying appreciation sound?" replies Apple.

34 There is some hesitation among the others, but everyone knows Apple is most loved by the human, so it doesn't take much convincing.

35 "Now we just need a plan," she says.

36 "Well, I've got one," interjects Fur Toy. "If we all climb to the top of the counter and jump at the same time, surely that will be enough force to break the top plate! "

37 Apple is hesitant; she really does not want to upset the girl, but she couldn't be more desperate for a treat. She finally agrees to the plan. What could go wrong? Plates are replaceable, and surely the girl won't mind. On the other hand, despite being the most loved, she is also likely to be the first blamed for the mishap.Apple, Shoe, and the toys, with the exclusion of Bear Bear, who watches from afar, climb together to the top of the shelf.

38 "On my count," says Shoe, grumbling something about how she's too old to be doing this.

LIVEWORKSHEETS

39 "1....2.....3!" They all jump, but their timing isn't quite right, and Fur Toy and Feather Stick miss the plate altogether. They hardly make a peep and the plate remains unbroken.

40 "Let's try that again with more force and better timing," says Fur Toy, blushing a bit. They climb the counter, and Apple takes charge.

41 "Okay, everyone," she says. "We have to hold onto each other and jump together toward the middle of the top plate. Otherwise, we'll never make it. "

42 On the count of three they jump again, and again nothing happens.

43 "Wait, wait, wait," says Bear Bear from where he's watching. "That's never going to work. You have to shove it on the floor. "

44 "You know, he's right," agrees Shoe, reluctantly. The rest nod in solemn agreement.

45 "Okay," says Apple. "I can probably handle this one on my own, but I have to know you guys have my back."

46 They nod again, furiously.

47 Apple creeps to the top of the shelf and then slowly down to the stack of plates. She presses her nose firmly against the stack and nudges the top plate. With a few more nudges it begins to move. She gives it one final nudge and with a loud crash it smashes into the floor. Feather Stick and Fur Toy jump out of sight. Bear Bear is long gone. Shoe is too shocked to move.

48 The girl leaps out of bed and comes stomping into the kitchen. "What is going on in here?" she demands, angrily.

49 Apple can only think of one thing to do in this situation. She rolls onto her back and offers up her soft, patterned underbelly to the girl. She flicks her paws in the air and meows as gently as she can.

50 "Aww," the girl coos. "How could I ever be mad at you? "

51 She pulls a bag down from the cabinet and offers Apple a treat.

LIVEWORKSHEETS

1.) What is the resolution?

a.) Apple calls a meeting of her friends.

b.) Apple pushes a dish off of the counter.

c.) Bear Bear agrees to help.

d.) Fur Toy and Feather Stick work together.

2.) The resolution can be found in paragraph-

a.) 42

b.) 44

c.) 46

d.) 48

Writing Homework:

Directions: Write a paragraph telling what your favorite holiday tradition is.

LIVEWORKSHEETS

Math Homework:

1. Solve for the quotient of 515 and 5.

a. 102 R5	b. 103
c. 105	d. 101

2. What is the least common multiple of 4 and 7?

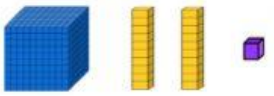

a. 16	b. 21
c. 24	d. 28

3. Select the three common factors for 4, 8, and 12.

1	2	3	4	6	8	12

4. This model is shaded to represent  = 1

What number does this model represent?

a. 1.21	b. 1.021	c. 0.121	d. 1.201

LIVEWORKSHEETS

Virginia Studies:

the Virginia Colony

The economy of the Virginia colony depended on _____.

© Alyssa Teaches

the Virginia Colony

The _____ of barns, homes, and places of worship reflected the different cultures of the settlers.

© Alyssa Teaches

LIVEWORKSHEETS

Science Homework:

8. What a lovely day! In the sky I see fluffy, white clouds with flat bottoms. Which of the following clouds would I see?

A. Cumulus
B. Stratus
C. Cirrus
D. Cumulonimbus

21.

The temperature is rising! Currently the temperature is 30 degrees Celsius. If it raises 12 degrees each hour for the next 3 hours, what will the new temperature be?

A. 36 degrees
B. 12 degrees
C. 66 degrees
D. 42 degrees

LIVEWORKSHEETS