Question 6 - Read the text below to answer the questions.

Can conscious consumerism save the world?

[...] 'Conscious consumers' are acting as agents of change by using their personal spending power to actively encourage brands that have a positive social and environmental impact [...]

Many conscious consumers have been aware of the plastic problem [...] now there is significant consumer pressure on brands to ditch excess plastic packaging [...]

Major brands [...] have now pledged to remove plastic straws in response to this growing consumer demand.

[...] It can be easy to feel powerless in the face of major issues. [...] If we are going to create a meaningful change in the face of these global challenges, we need to work together as a society. Governments and businesses will respond to consumer demand, so it is our choices and actions as conscious consumers that have the power to truly impact change.
