II . Reading and writing.

1 Read the article. Are the statements true or false?

When Tom first became interested in playing football for his school team, his friends were amazed. They all knew he wasn't very keen on sport and Tom didn't have a lot of natural talent as a sportsman. So, what made him change his mind?

It turned out that Tom's favourite TV programme was all about a boy called Harry, who was the same age as Tom. Harry was asked to play in a school football match as a reserve – even though he wasn't a great player. To everyone's surprise, he played brilliantly and scored a goal – which meant that his team won the match! Harry was carried round the football field by his team mates and everyone called him a hero.

Tom always enjoyed being popular at school, so this seemed the best way to make even more friends! So, he began to train hard and use all his spare time to practise. And as a result, it wasn't long before Tom was chosen by his teacher to join one of the school teams – and play in an important match.

The day of the match came and Tom and his team played really well. But the other team were stronger, so Tom's team missed the few opportunities they had to score. In the end they were beaten by the other team and lost the match. But Tom's schoolmates still thought they were all heroes – and after the match, they were all carried around the football field, just as Tom had hoped!

1 Tom enjoyed playing a number of different sports. .....
2 Harry played much better than expected in one football game. .....
3 Because Tom practised so hard, he was soon selected for the school team. .....
4 Tom's team had plenty of chances to score goals in the game. .....
5 At the end of the match, Tom got exactly what he wanted from playing football. .....

Moving House

Recently, my family and I moved home – and it was quite a big change. We left behind our quiet flat in a small but modern apartment block near the city airport and went to a traditional 19th-century stone cottage right out in the countryside, in the middle of a big village with lots of friendly people around.

Soon after we arrived, Dad started trying to make the place as environmentally-friendly as possible. It was expensive to add things like solar panels to supply electricity, so we decided to wait and do that later. But the cottage already had a living 'green' roof and it wasn't long before we had our own vegetables growing outside around the house, in addition to the flowers that were already there.

I wasn't sure about the place when we first moved in. But it was certainly cosy and comfortable indoors, just as Mum and Dad promised. It was easy to get to school from there, too, as the bus passed right by the house. And under the house there was a room where I could play my guitar and drums and make as much noise as I liked – perfect!

My bedroom is up in the roof of the house, so the ceiling's a bit low and I feel quite far away from everyone else up there sometimes. On the plus side, though, I can look right out over the fields and see for miles and miles. I definitely didn't have that in our old home.

I've no idea how long we'll stay here. My two sisters are living with us at the moment, but they're both getting married soon, so they'll leave – and we'll have more space! My grandparents will be able to come and stay with us more often then. But the most likely thing is that Dad's office will send him to another branch far away and we'll all have to go with him. I hope that doesn't happen, though – I love this house already!
