EL PAÍS

The star of international smash hit Money Heist, Úrsula Corberó, made her debut this week as a guest on The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon. (1) the actress appeared during a six-minute segment, discussing the international success of the series (known in Spanish as La Casa de Papel), (2) , and telling a story about when she met Madonna (...)

Money Heist was the most-viewed content on Netflix between November 29 and December 5, according to data from the streaming giant. (3) the Spanish show racked up nearly 190 million hours of streaming in just three days, well above any other show or film in English or any other language for that matter. The second-rated piece of content, Colombian telenovela The Queen of Flow, accumulated 59 million hours in the same period.

The rise in Corberó's popularity when Money Heist arrived on Netflix is clear to see from her social media accounts. At the start of 2018, she had one million followers on Instagram. (4) and she is currently one of the most-popular Spanish celebrities on the social network.
In recent years, her international projects have included the show Snatch, which stars Rupert Grint of Harry Potter fame, (5) She also appeared in action movie Snake Eyes: G.I. Joe Origins.

A. Right now, they number more than 24 million
B. Despite the final episodes only having been released on December 3
C. and is an adaptation of the Guy Ritchie movie of the same name from the year 2000.
D. dropping a conveniently beeped f-bom
E. Scheduled to coincide with the release of the final episodes of the show on streaming service Netflix

LIVEWORKSHEETS