In the future

LIVEWORKSHEETS

Owen and Jacob

Practice the conversation between Owen and Jacob.

- Owen: Hi Jacob. How's it going?
- Jacob: Good. How are you?
- Owen: Good. Would you like to come to a jazz concert in the park on Saturday afternoon?
- Jacob: Sure, I would love to. It's going to be beautiful and warm this weekend.
- Owen: Great. The concert starts at 4pm at Green Park.
- Jacob: OK. Why don't we get dinner after the concert?
- Owen: That's a great idea. There is a really good sushi restaurant that you would like. It's right near the park.
- Jacob: That sounds great. I'll see you on Saturday.

We often use Would you like to + verb to invite a person.

You can also see three ways to accept an invitation.

LIVEWORKSHEETS

Language for invitations

Which expressions are invitations, and which expressions are responses to invitations?

Would you like to come to a party with me?

Do you want to grab a bite to eat?

Are you free on the weekend?

Yes, I'd love to.

That'd be great, but I can't.

Sorry, I'm busy.

That sounds great.

Perfect! I'd love to!

LIVEWORKSHEETS

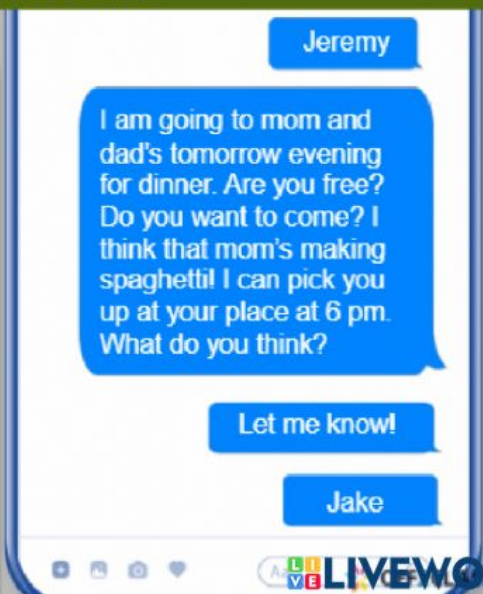

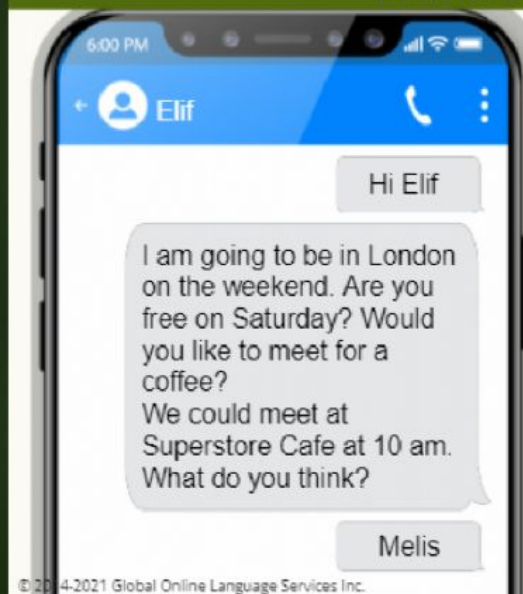

Invite a friend

Make and accept an invitation.

Sending an invitation

Melis and Jake wrote invitations to their friends.
Read the invitations.

Write an invitation

Answer the questions before writing.

- A. Who are you going to write to?
- B. What are you inviting the person to do?
- C. What details do you need to include?
- D. How much does it cost?
- E. Where are you going to meet?
- F. What time are you going to meet?

Use these examples to help you:

Would you like to come to a party with me?

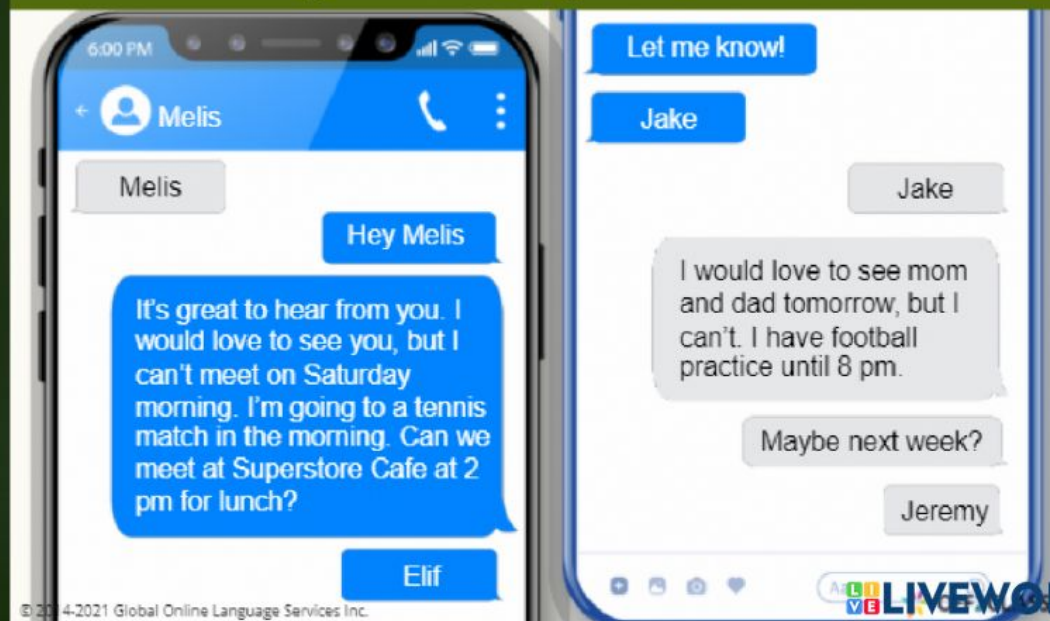

Do you want to grab a bite to eat?

Are you free on the weekend?

At the bottom right, there is a 'LIVEWORKSHEETS' watermark.
