ALEX HELPS HIS DAD

It was winter and Alex's dad was working in the yard. "Alex, can you help me, please?" his dad asked. "There was a bad storm last night and I want to remove some of the old trees and plants from the yard." Alex wanted to stay inside and play a computer game with his friends. But he knew his dad needed him so he put on his warm coat and went outside. It was cold and windy. First, Alex and his dad collected the old trees, then they cut them up to have wood for their fire. Alex soon felt warmer. He found some old flowers and started to pull them out of the ground. Suddenly he saw something under the flowers. It was shining. At first he thought it was some glass or plastic. He picked it up and cleaned it with his glove. It was a key. Alex showed it to his dad. "We need to take this to the museum," his dad said. "I think it's made of silver."
