

Bill of Rights 1-4

Read the scenarios carefully, and decided which ones are legal and illegal under the protections guaranteed by the Bill of Rights.

1) Miguel is an American citizen with no criminal record. He sometimes posts on anti-government websites. When the local police chief hears that Miguel has a collection of over 50 firearms. He asks for paperwork indicating that the guns have been legally obtained. After Miguel provides it, he's ordered to turn the guns and ammunition over to the police.

2) During wartime, there are more soldiers being trained than there are military bases to house them. Therefore, Congress passes a law allowing for the temporary quartering of soldiers in nearby private homes. The Johnson family protests, but they are forced to house the soldiers anyway. The army gives the Johnsons money for their inconvenience.

3) Jonathan is in his house listening to the radio when two policemen knock at the door. The police accuse Jonathan of having stolen property, enter the house, and take several things, including the radio that they say do not belong to him. When he asks if the policemen have permission to take his things, they ignore him and leave with the property.
