

The Shepherd's Boy

There was once a young shepherd's boy who tended his sheep at the foot of a mountain near a dark forest. It was rather lonely for him all day, so he thought of a plan to get a little company and some excitement. He rushed down toward the village, calling out, "Wolf! Wolf!" and the villagers came out to help him. Some of them stayed with him for a little while. This pleased the boy so much that a few days later, he tried the same trick, and again the villagers came to help him. But shortly after this, a wolf actually did come out from the forest and began to scare the sheep. The boy of course cried out, "Wolf! Wolf!" still louder than before. But this time the villagers, who had been fooled before, thought the boy was again deceiving them. Nobody came to his help. So the wolf ate the sheep from the boy's flock and when the boy complained, the wise man of the village said, "It is your own fault, if after so often taking your life for a truth, we at last took your truth for a lie."
