Leaders in our community

The hurricane damaged the community. Trees were uprooted. Boats were broken. Roofs were blown away. Some houses were gone. There were dead animals and fish all around. There was no electricity. The people had to help themselves.

The preachers, the principals, the island Administrator, the police officer, the farmer, and a Red Cross volunteer got together. They set up a committee to plan what to do. They were leaders. Each person had a special job.

The preacher made a list of the damages. The farmer was in charge of moving trees. The principal made the school into a home for the people with no houses. The Red Cross volunteers cooked food for the hungry people. Everyone helped the leaders with these jobs.
