

Narrative Text

WORKSHEET

Name :

Class :

1. Listening Section

I. Listen to the audio and fill in the blanks with the words that you hear!

THE SLEEPING BEAUTY

Once upon a time there was a king and queen who for a very long time had no children, and when at (1) a little daughter was born to them they were so pleased that they (2) a (3) to which they invited a number of fairies. But, unfortunately, they left out one rather cross old fairy, and she was so angry that she said the princess should die when she reached the age of sixteen, by (4) her hand with a spindle. All the other fairies present, except one, had already given the princess their beautiful gifts, and this last one said she could not prevent part of the (5) wish coming true; but her gift should be that the princess should not really die, but only fall into a deep sleep, which should last for a hundred years, and at the end of that time she should be (6) by a king's son.

It all happened as the fairies had (7) . When the princess was sixteen years old she saw an old woman spinning and took the spindle from her to try this strange new work. Instantly she (8) her hand and fell into a deep sleep, as did everyone else in the palace. There she lay in a (9) year after year, and the hedge around the palace garden grew so tall and thick that at last you could not have told that there was a (10) at all. At the end of the hundred years a king's son heard of the castle and the enchanted princess who lay asleep there and determined to (11) her. So he cut his way through the thick prickly hedge and at length he came to the princess. When he (12) how lovely and how sweet she looked he fell in love with her and, (13) , kissed her lips. At once she awoke and with her the king and queen and all the courtiers, who had fallen asleep at the same time. As the princess was as much (14) with the prince's appearance as he was with hers, they decided to be married. And so the wedding was celebrated the same day with (15) and ceremony. The End.

2. Match Section

II. Match Section. The sentences on the left box are the part of story about 'Grasshopper and the Ant'. Match the sentences to its generic structure on the right box!

The grasshopper laughed at the ant. The ant said that the grasshopper should gather food too for winter but the grasshopper didn't worry about it because he had some food to eat.

Winter began. The grasshopper felt cold and could not find anything to eat. He went to the Ant's house. The Ant gave him food.

We might not waste time just for having fun. However, we have to prepare ourselves for the future

Once upon a time, the grasshopper was playing his guitar while the ant worked hard to gather food.

RESOLUTION

ORIENTATION

COMPLICATION

3. True or False

III. Based on the two stories above, state whether the statements are true or false. Give a check on the box!

1. There was a king and queen who have many children. (T ☐ /F ☐)
2. The old fairy invited to the christening feast of the King's daughter. (T ☐ /F ☐)
3. The princess fell into a deep sleep when she was sixteen years old. (T ☐ /F ☐)
4. The old fairy was so angry. (T ☐ /F ☐)
5. The princess was awakened by King's son. (T ☐ /F ☐)
6. The grasshopper was playing guitar and enjoying the winter. (T ☐ /F ☐)
7. The grasshopper and the ant worked hard to gather food. (T ☐ /F ☐)
8. The ant prepared a lot of food for winter season. (T ☐ /F ☐)
9. The grasshopper accepted the ant's advice. (T ☐ /F ☐)
10. The ant spent his winter happily. (T ☐ /F ☐)

4. Drag and Drop

IV. Drag and drop. Drag the pictures provided and drop it to the appropriate box!

Takatuliang, the Woodcarver

Once upon a time, there lived King Simbau and his beautiful daughter, Princess Sangiang Mapaele, in a kingdom on the island of Simbau, in the Sulawesi Sea. The king was very wise and kind. The princess was not only beautiful, but also kind-hearted. She often went out of the palace to meet her people.

Because of her beauty and kindness many princes and rich men wanted to marry the king's daughter. This made the king very confused. He wanted to choose the best husband for his daughter. Then, he announced a contest. Whoever presented the princess with most valuable gift would marry her.

In a small village there lived Takatuliang, a poor young woodcarver. He heard about the contest and decided to try. He was so poor that he had nothing to present. He thought very long and hard. So he went far into the forest. There he chose the best tree and carved it into a doll.

Next, he took an old piece of cloth and sewed it into a dress for the doll. After that, he cut his own hair and glued it to the doll's head.

On the day of the contest, all of the princes gathered before King Simbau and the beautiful princess. The first prince presented his gift. He said proudly, "dear princess, this is the proof of my love, a comb carved from ivory."
"How many combs like this do you have?" asked the princess.
"I have many of them," said the prince.
Then, Prince Mapaele went to the second prince.
"What do you bring for me?" asked the princess.
"I bring this silk as the proof of my love," said the prince proudly.
"How many pieces of silk like this do you have?" asked the princess.
"Oh, a lot, my dear," said the prince.
"What about you?" asked the princess to the third prince, "what do you bring for me?"
He presented her with a very beautiful necklace. "This is the proof of my love, my dear princess. And I still have many necklaces like this."
Finally, it was Takatuliang's turn. Takatuliang bowed his head. "I bring only a doll," said Takatuliang softly.
"How many dolls like this do you have?" asked the princess again.
"Only this one. I carved it myself and decorated it with my own hair and my father's old cloth. He died and this is the only thing he left me," answered Takatuliang.

Princess Sangiang Mapaele was very touched to hear Takatuliang's story. She decided to marry Takatuliang because he had given her everything he had. Together, Takatuliang and the princess lived happily ever after.

GOOD LUCK...