

American Civil War

_____ or owning slaves was very common in the 17th century where slaves would work on the _____ of their owners picking cotton and coffee. Slaves sometimes would run away or try to _____ but because they didn't know the _____ or way North, they would get captured and be punished. The _____ was too great because punishment might include being separated from their families.

It wasn't until the Civil War in America that the slaves could possibly hope as the North wanted to give the slaves _____. Northern people wanted to _____ slavery or ban it as they believed that all people no matter the color of their skin should have _____ and the same rights as everyone else.

When the North won, President Lincoln signed the _____ Act which made it against the _____ for any person to ever own a slave again.

Abolish Emancipation
Escape
Law
Plantation
Slavery
Equality
Freedom
Risk
Route