

Talking about your family tree

I: How much do you know about your family tree?

B: My family tree? Uh...I don't know a whole lot about my family tree, but I do know that my relatives came from Scotland about three generations ago.

I: Have you ever researched it?

B: I have researched it a little bit. I found out recently that my family was booked on the Titanic actually at one point. And then due to the measles they had to bail at the last minute and get a new boat.

I: How did you find that out?

B: My brother researched my family tree when he went to Ellis Island and discovered some interesting facts about our family.

I: Is there someone in your family that you would like to know more about?

B: I would love to know more about my ancestors, for sure.

I: Why?

B: Because it would be interesting.

I: How much do you know about your family tree?

A: I know a fair amount about my family tree. I know that my father's side of the family is from Scotland and my mother reigns from Hungary and that's where most of our family from that side is from.

I: Have you ever researched it?

A: I've done a little bit of research into the Scottish side of my family. I know that I had a set of twins in my family from there that moved to Canada when they were just small boys.

I: Is there someone in your family that you would like to know more about?

A: I would like to know more about my great-grandfather. He was one of the twins that moved to Canada. His parents died of some sort of famine that I don't know much about, and I'd love to research that.

I: How much do you know about your family tree?

J: I know a bit about my family tree. I know that my mom's side of the family comes from Italy originally-two generations back. And my dad's side of the family is from Ireland and Wales. My dad's actually from England, but his family's from Ireland and Wales.

I: Have you ever researched it?

J: I didn't research it personally. My mother and her sister have researched her family pretty far back. So, I know a bit from them. And on my dad's side of the family, I have immediate family from those places so that's how I know.

I: Is there someone in your family that you would like to know more about?

J: I'd like to know more about my great-grandfather, I think. He was a jockey in Ireland, and I think he had a pretty interesting life.

I: How much do you know about your family tree?

T: I wouldn't say I know too much extensively about my family tree. I know I'm Polish and French Indian. But I only know up to my grandparents. I've never really researched into the history of my family or my family tree that much.

I: Is there someone in your family that you would like to know more about?

T: Um...probably my grandfather on my father's side. He died when I was pretty young. And I know he had a lot of hobbies that I'd be interested in, but I didn't really get a chance to spend a lot of time with him.

A whole lot ≠ a little bit

Due to= owing to/ because of

Ellis Island: an island in upper New York Bay that served as a former US immigration station from 1892 to 1954. Ellis Island also has documentation on the millions of immigrants who passed through the station.

A fair amount= a reasonable amount
