

LE REPAS TRADITIONNEL

A close-up photograph of a dark-colored bowl filled with a vibrant vegetable salad. The salad consists of diced tomatoes, cucumbers, bell peppers, and possibly some leafy greens. The bowl is placed on a light-colored, textured surface, possibly a tablecloth. In the background, there are some blurred items, including what looks like a small white bowl and some greenery.

A rectangular blue and white floral patterned dish filled with a baked potato gratin. The gratin consists of layers of sliced potatoes, cheese, and a creamy sauce, topped with a golden-brown crust. A small glass dish is visible in the foreground.

A stack of three golden-brown crepes is presented on a white plate. The crepes are drizzled with a dark chocolate sauce, which is also used to create a decorative swirl around the stack. Shavings of dark chocolate are scattered over the crepes and the plate. A small sprig of fresh green mint leaves is placed to the left of the crepes.
