

Which of the following examples best describes one type of energy changing into another?

- A. a magnet sticking to a refrigerator
- B. sound traveling through a solid wall
- C. an electric heater warming up a cold room
- D. light rays bending as they pass through glass