

Clever Parents

Rajesh was the son of a rich man was very lazy by nature. He did not want to study but was forced to go to school because his parents wanted him to study well.

One day he thought of a plan of avoiding going to school. He told his parents that he was very ill. His parents were worried too him to met a doctor. The doctor examined him and said that there was nothing wrong with him. But Rajesh kept complaining that he was not well and that he was too weak and ill to go to school.

The parents decided to teach him a lesson. They gave him only bread and milk. His parents did not allow him to watch TV and to play with anyone.

One week passed and Rajesh felt miserable. He wanted to eat normal food, meet his friends. So he told his parents that he felt better and would go to school. The parents were very happy that their plan had worked.